I LOGAL POLYTICE.—The amount of patriotism now before the public has never been equalled since the days of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Pot-house politicians, and men of the higher er grade, mix readily, like ingredients in a well-built cocktall, in one bitter aware mixture, to serve the dear people. It is always thus when fat offices are to be grabbed, and a good salary secured with grabbed, and a good salary secured with grabbed, and a good salary secured with a title labor, that "great expectations" are raised, and a sudden Vesuvius eruption of patriotism boils and flows over the city and State in one grand, unselfash stream to save the country.

When the trains a head were noticed, they immediately tried to check, but the air hose on No. 5 broke, which made their efforts to check suddenly fruitless. The conductor of the feight train threw open the switch and allowed the engines to collide, thereby, saving a collision of the passenger trains. Fortunately no person was seriously injured.

A GREAT many empty beer kegs were hauled in from the rural districts last evening. Country people must consume considerable lager according to the returns, for it is not to be presumed that city people carry beer out on Sundays. This is the season when preaching goes on very slowly in pulpits, and listeners dream in the depths of their pews shady nocks in the country until waked by an offending fly or the Doxology.

The shorter the sermons yesterday the more satisfaction: Quite a number of divines obtained a reputation by an apt conformity with the popular desire.
